

WIDOW STUDIED LAW TO LEARN TO HANDLE ESTATE OF HUSBAND

Barry's Suit for Part of $10,000 Fee Reveals Mrs. Squier Was Own Attorney.

That Mrs. William W. Squier, widow of a millionaire, went to a law school that she might better handle the vast property left her by her husband was revealed in a suit that was carried to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court to-day. She is being sued by Amos Edward Woodruff, a lawyer of No. 145 Broadway, who claims $5,000 as a balance due for services after the death of her husband, Charles H. Squier, in October, 1904.

Mrs. Squier lives with her son, Charles Burham Squier, at No. 621 Park avenue. The family formerly lived on a magnificent estate at Rahway, N. J., and were old friends and neighbors of Attorney Woodruff and his wife.

In his complaint Woodruff says that two days after the funeral of Squier the widow came to him and asked that he assist her in handling the affairs of the estate. He agreed to do so for $10,000, and for his services up to April 1, 1906, he rendered a bill for that amount. Mrs. Squier held that it was exorbitant. She dismissed the attorney after a consultation with her uncle, Joseph Keene, a millionaire of Philadelphia, where Mrs. Squier was formerly prominent in society.

Woodruff claims the widow's matriculation at law school for a big part of his troubles. He says her study aided greatly to his difficulties.

In his complaint Woodruff says one of his services was the procurement of a $100,000 bond to enable Mrs. Squier to qualify as administratrix of her husband's estate and as guardian for her son, then a minor. He says that for "upward of six months, without receiving any pay whatever, he rendered Mrs. Squier valuable and disagreeable services." The lawyer continues that his client expressed great satisfaction with his work until after she called at his office one day in April, 1906, and received advice concerning a check. Mrs. Squier, he says, made known that she was dissatisfied with this advice and never returned to his office.

When the case was tried in the Supreme Court before Justice Greenbaum the jury decided that $5,000 was sufficient for the lawyer's services. Then Woodruff determined to appeal.

DROMIOS CAUGHT "JOSTLING"

Dressed like twins, Pickpocket and Companion "Worked" Cars.

Philip Firro of No. 305 East Fourteenth street and Henry Morris of No. 122 East Tenth street caught the attention of Detective Taskewitz to-day because they were dressed like twins and in flashy style. They looked enough alike to be brothers, and they boarded car after car at Fourteenth street and Fourth avenue and rode two or three blocks down town. The cars were running close, being blocked by a small fire in the synagogue of the Congregation Kadishah at No. 341 East Fourteenth street.

Taskewitz made several trips with them, but was unable to charge them with anything more than pushing and jostling on a public conveyance. Firro has a record of long term in Rikers and many workhouse sentences for pocket-picking. Morris was not known to the police.

Subway Tied Up Nine Minutes. Downtown local and express trains were held up at Seventy-second street for nine minutes to-day when the signal lights went out of order shortly after 10 o'clock. While the disconnections searched for the cause, trains in the rear of the two held at the blocked signal continued to move up behind, throwing the whole downtown service out of schedule.

BABY'S FACE

COVERED WITH ECZEMA PATCHES CURED BY SAXO SALVE AFTER OTHER OINTMENTS FAILED.

"I wish to express a few sentiments in regard to the virtues of Saxo Salve. Our little boy, three years old, was affected with what our physician pronounced as an infantile form of eczema. Sores or pustules gradually spread over his face and thighs in patches and dry scales forming."

"We tried various ointments without benefit. A friend offered us a tube of Saxo Salve, which we at once began applying to his eruptions. In a week, quite a visible improvement was made, and at the end of two weeks he was completely cured. I cannot speak too highly of Saxo Salve and I want you to feel free to tell others of my experience."

R. L. Simpson, Battle Creek, Mich.
For Eczema, Salt Rheum, Itching, burning rash or humors of the skin or other skin troubles, the soothing, penetrating and healing power of Saxo Salve is unequalled. Try it on our guarantee to return your money if it does not help you.
